ELEVEN railroads for the fourth week of April show an average net increase of 25.92 per cent.

A Missouri Editor says a dollar will not go as far as it would ten years ago. If we remember rightly, about ten years ago some of us were wondering where our next dollar was coming from.—Washington Post.

PROTECTIONISTS do not deny that panics may occur under protection. Their contention is that protection to American industries is a good thing for the United States and that disaster will follow, as it did follow, any radical reversal of that policy.

ACCORDING to the latest estimates of the Census Office, the population of the United States in 1904 was 81,732,000. Since the war period, the increase per decade has been 22 per cent.; at which rate, assuming it to be maintained, we shall have, at the end of another generation, or say in the year 1940, a round total of about 170,000,000, or approximately double our present number of inhabitants.

Two years ago, Edward F. Danne was elected Mayor of Chicago on the issue of immediate assumption by the city of the ownership and operation of street railroads, by 24,518 majority. In the recent election he was defeated on the same issue by F. A. Bussé, the Republican candidate, by about 13,000 plurality. A gratifying feature of the result is the falling off 10,000 in the independent Socialist vote.

The present Protective Tariff is so consistent that it not only a jewel, but a jewel of the first water. As such jewel it should be carefully preserved by every voter who benefits directly or indirectly by reason of its consistency.

GREENUP, with two Republican papers, a United States Senator, a Congressman and the only MILT STEVENS, is certainly envied by all the towns round about. Grayson has its Judge HUBBARD, however, and is content.—Grayson Tribune.

MANY teachers and trustees of the Fayette county and Lexington-city schools have taken advantage of the opportunity offered by the Civic League to beautify the school premises and buildings by planting flower and garden seeds furnished by the league. The example is worthy of emulation and the school buildings and grounds in Maysville and Mason county should reflect the culture which dominates the interior of our temples of education. A thing of beauty is a delight to the eye and a joy forever, but a treeless, barren waste is a vapid monstrosity and should have no place in our hearts, our homes and our public institutions. Our own Hayswood School is a fair example of quiet beauty combined with the natural and the simple artistic which is pleasing to look upon.

WHAT SHE TOLD HIM

Senator Depew once raised a great laugh at a London banquet by quoting the following poem as coming from Leslie M. Shaw's pen:

"Go ask papa," the maiden said,
He knew that her papa was dead.
He also knew the life he'd led
And understood her when she said,
"Go ask papa."

Englishmen are said to be slow in seeing a joke, but even they caught on to the girl's polite method of telling an unwelcome suitor to go to the infernal regions.

TRAXEL'S

A Splendid Studio—All but the View

Wearily the girl climbed the long, dirty flight of stairs. It made the twenty-third flight that she had mounted that day, and her back ached and her brain was dizzy and her heart was sick.

"Verily," she sighed, "they charge more for a hole in the ceiling than for a whole house."

For the girl was looking for a skylight studio knows that the Pilgrim's Progress or the hunt for the Golden Fleece was a more summer's pastime beside such a task.

The janitress flung open the door of the back room and the girl's eyes danced with joy. Here it was at last, just what she had been looking for. A big, bright room, long enough to swing a Mexican hammock across, with a large old-fashioned fireplace on one side and a beautiful skylight in its ceiling, through which the northern light showed clear and white.

"O, joy! O, happiness!" exclaimed the girl, running to the huge old-fashioned windows and flinging them up—and then she stopped short; for the sight that met her gaze fell like a blow upon the artistic temperament, to say nothing of the human eye. Line after line of common, everyday washing stretched in an unending vista before her horrified gaze, and above and behind the snow of dripping garments loomed the hideous rear wall of an ugly tenement. The girl stood still and reflected for a moment.

"I knew," she murmured, "there must be something the matter with it at that price." Then her eye wandered back to the skylight and the fireplace—and she fell.

"O, well, they only wash on Mondays," she decided, as she signed the lease.

But to her consternation she discovered a week later that people who live in tenements wash every day—judging by the fresh productions daily. Each morning the girl arose to face a line of vermilion blankets, or a row of baby frocks.

Her soul shrank at the thought of inviting a friend to view this hideous background and gradually her inspiration became dulled. The pictures in her brain resolved themselves into overalls and cotton sheets. Then a great idea came to her and she hid herself to a shop where they sell a wonderful transparent paper giving it the effect of stained glass. Gayly she hurried home with a St. Cecilia window in one hand and a Rembrandt in the other. The result was glorious.

She worked all that evening, and the next morning when she opened her eyes the sun was shining through in pink and yellow rays and instead of the horrible tenement "wash" St. Cecilia and the Rembrandt figure smiled upon her encouragingly. Then she bought some pale yellow silk and hung it in simple folds across the upper panes of her windows. Over this and falling to the floor at either side she draped soft rich curtains; and on top of the whole she had thick green shades adjusted.

"Now," she declared defiantly, "not even Peeping Tom could see through that!" And then she invited her entire coterie of friends to her housewarming.

They came to see and remained to envy. Never, they declared, had there been such a gem of a studio, such an ideal place in which to dream and work and make merry. How had the girl found it? And how could she afford it?

The girl chuckled to herself and shrugged her shoulders nonchalantly. It was a great hour of triumph. A wealthy connoisseur was present, also a rich woman, who might possibly order a portrait. The tea-kettle bubbled merrily and the pink and yellow lights filled the place with mystic beauty.

The girl lifted the old silver teapot to pour the wealthy connoisseur a second cup. Suddenly the harsh jangle of a fire engine rang out on the air. Everybody sat up and listened. Nearer and nearer came the clanging bell. The studio babbled stopped. It seemed that the engine stopped almost under the girl's window. There was a moment of excited hubbub. The wealthy connoisseur rushed over and flung open a window and craned his neck. The girl sank weak and helpless on a divan.

"What is it? Where is it?" cried the excited guests, crowding toward the open pane.

"It's a snowstorm, not a fire," remarked the wealthy connoisseur, drawing his head in. "It's been snowing pajamas, I think."

And the fire, half a block away, was forgotten as the disillusioned guests gazed blankly upon the unending rows of McGrady flannels and Blumstein nightgowns.

Next morning as the girl awoke it seemed as though St. Cecilia grinned at her maliciously and the Rembrandt person actually leered.

Once more the big studio is for rent, and the girl is ensconced in a tiny box of a room with one window that opens on Washington square. Her knees and sides are bruised from bumping against her furniture in this two-by-four compartment and her hammock sits disconsolately in a corner, but her artistic temperament is recovering and has begun to sit up and take notice.

Finland has never had a thunderstorm.

Farmer's Resort to Shotgun Not Astonishing Under Circumstances.

The farmer sat on the top rail of his stake-and-rider fence with his sawed off shotgun across his knee. "Layin' for crows?" queried the Weary Willie who came limping up the dusty highway.

"Nope," the farmer gruffly answered. "I'm layin' fer b'loons. See that sign?" The wayfarer saw the sign. It was rudely lettered with white chalk on a blackboard. He read it aloud:

All b'loonists is warned that these is private groun's. Any b'loonists trespassin' on these premises will be give the full penalty of the law."

"Understandable, ain't it?" the farmer asked.

"Couldn't be plainer," said the wayfarer. "Been annoyin' you, have they?"

"Annoyin' is mild," returned the farmer. "The first one of 'em dropped in the middle of my onean bed. I'll admit I wuz rather tickled to see him an' didn't say nothin' 'bout damages. Second feller tipped over seven of my bee hives an' ripped the roof off the corn crib. I was too dern busy doggin' bees to put in any bill an' afore I could look 'round—both eyes bein' pretty nigh stung shut—the feller was a-sailin' over Plum creek. The last chap didn't come clear down, but he dropped his blamed anchor, an' somehow it caught in my melon vines an' away he flew with 27 of the finest an' ripest melons you ever see a-danglin' at the end of his consarned old drag rope. Then I writ that warnin' over there an' loaded the gun, an' the fust arrynot that flies low enough I'll blow his old gas bag full of holes ez sure ez my name's Lige-Hawkins!" "Good enough," said the wayfarer.

Absent-Minded Prize.

"I've met the most absent-minded man at last," said the man who is always looking for freaks. "I thought I'd found him in the college professor who, when he went up stairs to dress for dinner, would absent-mindedly go to bed instead. But that fellow was displaced by a young writer who would put his foot up in a chair to tie his shoe, and then forgetting what he did it for, would put the other foot up in the chair and stand up in it. Then I met a woman who confessed to looking absent-mindedly in the back of her hair brush instead of her hand mirror when she wanted to see the back of her head, and I thought she had gone the writer one better. But I've met the king of the absent-minded world now. He is a young minister, and every once in a while he waits patiently half an hour for a car in a street on which no cars run. He has confessed it, but every once in a while he does the trick right over again."

Readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

RUNAWAY GIRL

From Cincinnati Stops in Maysville—Family Differences the Cause

"My Dear Mother: I am going to New York. Do not look for me. I hope Brother Norman will have a good time. He has hit me his last time. Your keys are in the cupboard under Anna's hat. Your money is in your trunk. Do not worry—it's for the best. Give my love to all. I had money you knew nothing about. Your daughter, LUCY."

Lucy Valz, a fourteen-year-old run away girl, and author of the above epistle, which appeared in last evening's Cincinnati Post, was a guest at the St. Charles Hotel in this city for several days, having left Tuesday for Manchester, O., where she said she was going to visit an aunt. Chief of Police Ort has notified Chief of Police Millikin of the Queen City, of her whereabouts.

The distracted mother, in speaking to a Post reporter said:

"She seemed perfectly happy when I left her with her little brother and sister," sobbed Mrs. Dumont. "I haven't the least idea what could have taken her away. She never had any but the best companions."

"She attended the Trinity Sunday-school regularly and never stayed away from home. I have often threatened Lucy that if she ever left home I would not let her return, and I am afraid now that she wouldn't come back, even if she wanted to," said the mother. "Oh, I never meant that! I want her back so badly. She's welcome if she'll only return. She'll break her poor mother's heart."

She is attractive in appearance and lady-like in deportment, and while here her conduct was above reproach.

NOTICE---ROBERVAL.

The Kentucky Breeding Bureau recently sent to Mr. W. H. Rice, Maysville, Mason county, Ky., the thoroughbred stallion Roberval, whose services will be donated to the people of this section. The Bureau was organized several weeks ago in order to help improve the general class of horse stock of the state. To that end it is purchasing thoroughbred stallions of such size, conformation and temperament as will produce excellent general purpose horses when bred to the common farm mares of those sections to which they are sent. So far as the Bureau is concerned the services of these stallions are donated absolutely free to the people of the state, as the Bureau receives its monetary return, directly or indirectly, from them. A service fee of $10 is charged, which goes in full to the men in whose care the stallions are placed, in order to recompense them for their expense and trouble. The Bureau has thus far sent out 25 horses. They have been placed in all sections of Kentucky, from Ballard, McCracken and Union counties in the West, to Carter and Powell in the East; from Owen, Breckinridge, Henderson and Gallatin counties in the North to Trigg, Warren, Russell, Clinton, Metcalfe and Laurel counties in the South.

ROBERVAL is a splendid bay horse, 3 years old, by Blue Devil, dam Becky Sharp by Red Del Rey. He was recently bought by a representative of the breeding Bureau as one of the best horses to be found in America to fulfill the purposes in mind. He is just out of training, but when in stud condition he will stand right at 16 hands high and will weigh 1,200 pounds. He has fine bone, ample substance, and yet all the quality characteristic of the thoroughbred, combined with the size necessary to secure the best possible results in producing an excellent type of the general purpose horse from common farm mares. He will be on exhibition at Mr. Rice's place, and should be visited by every man in this vicinity who is interested in horses. He should prove of genuine benefit in the improvement of the class of stock of this section.

KENTUCKY CROPS

A Hard Year Predicted For Farmers of the State

The report of the State Commissioner of Agriculture shows a rather discouraging condition of affairs for the farmers.

The warm weather in March, followed by the cold April, says the report, has practically ruined all the early corn, and it has had to be replanted. Forward wheat is also considerably damaged, as is the oats crop. Peaches are practically ruined, while there is some damage to plums, cherries, apples and other fruit.

Tobacco plants are scarce, and for the first time the "leaf-bug" has done some damage under canvas. The hurley crop of 1906, will be about 90% of that of 1905, while in the dark district there is a falling off of about 8%. The condition of grass and clover is fairly satisfactory.

BATTLED WITH FATE

Death Ends Career of Dr. George E. Collins of Flemingsburg.

With accompanying pictures of the parties, yesterday's Cincinnati Post says—

News reached Cincinnati Tuesday of the death of Dr. George E. Collins, dentist, of Flemingsburg, Ky., who had an office in Cincinnati.

His death reveals a story of a man's battle with fate. Dr. Collins was a graduate of Ohio Dental College, class 1903. After graduation he opened an office in Cincinnati. But ill health stayed his progress. Even while attending college he became very ill. Hardly had he recovered, than typhoid fever claimed him, and he went through two sieges of the disease. Just before that he met and became engaged to Miss Clara R. Stock, a student, at the dental college. Miss Stock will be graduated Thursday. There was to be a reunion of the lovers. Dr. Collins had gone to Florida to fight off consumption, which developed after his successful fight with typhoid.

Sunday a telegram was received by his fiancée, stating that he was coming home to attend her graduation. He was well again, he believed. In a Pullman sleeping car at Montgomery, Ala., on his way to Cincinnati, he died. The girl's father, who had gone to Florida, to accompany the young doctor, took charge of the body, which arrived in Cincinnati Tuesday.

Collins will be buried at his old home, in Flemingsburg, Ky.

Miss Stock will accompany the body of her fiancée to the last resting place, after which she will return to Cincinnati and take her graduation honors.

WOMEN'S WOES.

Maysville Women are Finding Relief at Last.

It does seem that women have more than a fair share of the aches and pains that afflict humanity; they must "keep up," must attend to duties in spite of constantly aching backs, or headaches, dizzy spells, hearing down pains; they must stoop over, when to stoop means torture. They must walk and bend and work with racking pains and many aches from kidney ills. Kidneys cause more suffering than any other organ of the body. Keep the kidneys well and health is easily maintained. Read of a remedy for kidneys only that helps and cures the kidneys and is endorsed by people you know.

Mrs. J. B. Gibson of 22 East Fourth street, Maysville, Ky., says:

"The prompt and thorough action of Doan's Kidney Pills should recommend them to every one suffering from backache or kidney troubles. I have known the value of this remedy for several years. Its use in my case proved to me that it is a reliable kidney cure and cannot be excelled for backache or weakness of the kidneys. I have recommended Doan's Kidney Pills before and I should advise every sufferer to get a supply and try them."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents a box, Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.
